Subject: Ugo DADONE (Ex-Major)

1. Ugo DADONE, an Italian journalist, is reported to be leaving Italy 27 November 1946 for a three-months trip to the Middle East. He plans to go first to Turkey and then to Syria and Lebanon.

2. Ugo DADONE, son of Andrea DADONE and Ernesta DE SENEDETTI DADONE, was born in Agropoli (Salerno), 3 June 1896. In 1911 he married Margherita Kasperova VACLAV, born in Czechoslovakia. Subject now resides at Via Varone 2, Rome. Besides his work as a journalist, he claims to be working part time at the Istituto Missionale del Mastro Azzuro. He speaks French, German, Arabic, Russian, Czech and Spanish. He has held a very high position in the Masons.

3. DADONE is described as tall, boney build; ht 1.84; wt 80 kgs; grey hair, combed back, usually dishevelled; tanned, weather-beaten complexion, pronounced lineation around eyes and mouth; square, lantern-jaws; grey eyes. World War I wound to left leg causes pronounced limp. He usually carries a heavy cane as a walking aid; stooped gait.

4. Subject was one of MUSSOLINI's most active collaborators from 1914 on. Immediately after the Armistice in 1918, subject was sent to Prague as Italian observer to the General Staff of the new Czech army. He became quite friendly with the MASARYKs and other leading Czechs.

5. Subject secured permission to enter Russia in March 1920 because of being instrumental in putting the Italian Minister in touch with the head of the Russian Delegation. He made observations on conditions under the new Regime first in Petrograd, later in Moscow, where he was hampered in his contacts because of having been assigned an "escort". He was expelled from Russia in April as a result of his "shaking" the escort and traveling unescorted for about a week. After leaving Russia he wrote what he had seen, and an article written on what he had observed of OB led to his being tried and sentenced to death in absentia by the Soviets.
